

Help with Engravings of West Sussex

This helpsheet will show you how to search for, save and print images from local engravings scanned from originals held by West Sussex Library Service.

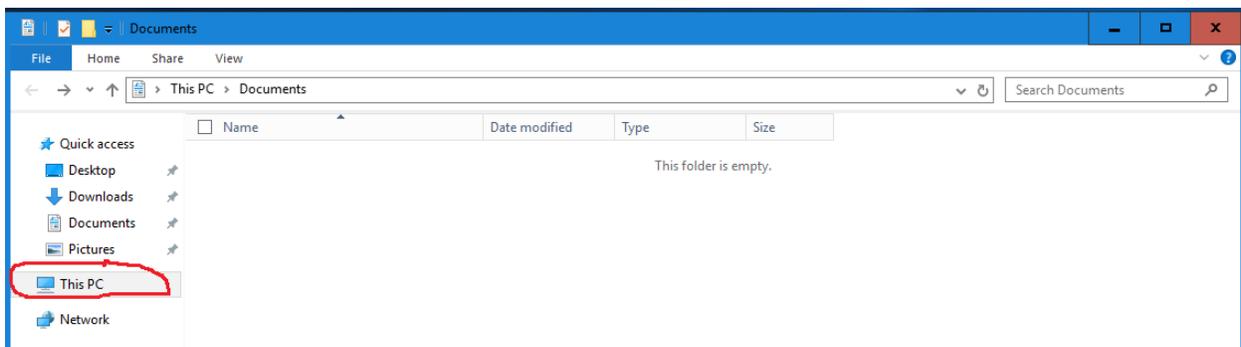

The West Sussex Engravings collection includes over 1,600 engravings, depicting views of every town and many villages in West Sussex, some dating back to the 1640s but most from the period 1760s to 1890s.

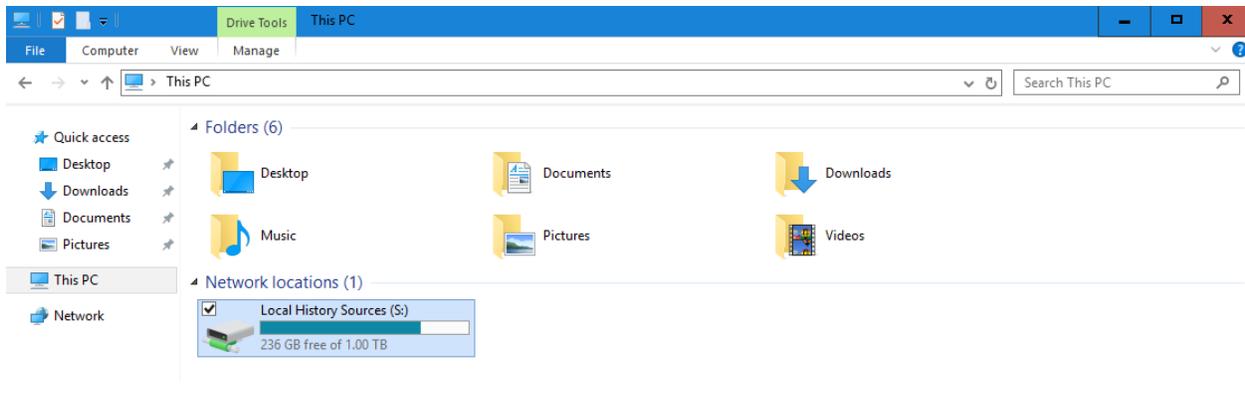

Searching the Engravings Collection

After you have logged on to the public computer, to access the Engravings Collection, double-click on the Documents icon on the desktop (circled in red).

Choose This PC then double-click Local History Sources.

Then double-click on Photographs and Pictures.

Once you have found the images that you would like to see, make a note of the file names from the spreadsheets, then look for the images in the relevant folders. The prefix 'wsl-' has been added to each image filename to denote the original is from 'west sussex libraries'. File names ending in 'a' are scans of the reverse of the engravings.

When you open the relevant folder, to display the files as image thumbnails, single click on View: Extra Large Icons

Then you can see thumbnails of all the images in the folder. Double click on the individual files, to have a closer look.

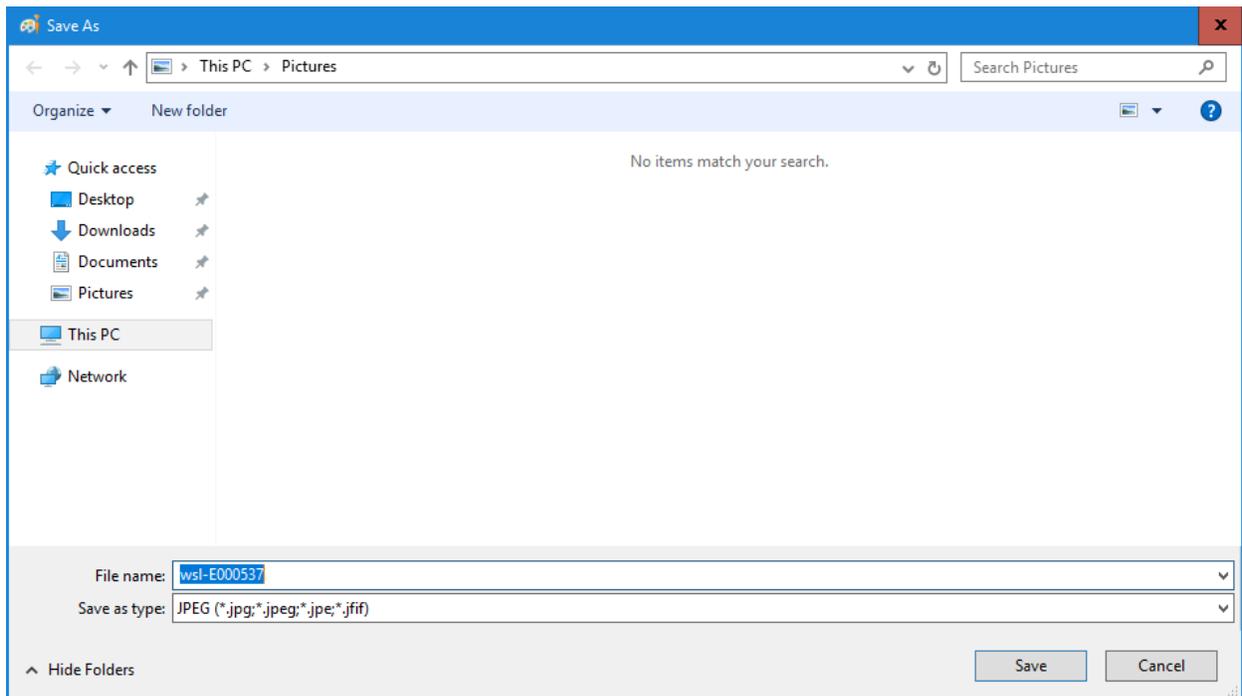

The files automatically open in Windows Photo Viewer, but if you right click and Open with Paint then you can Print and Save the images.

To print the image, click File from the toolbar, followed by Print.

To save the image, click File from the toolbar, followed by Save As.

The jpeg will automatically save to This PC – Pictures. If you have a memory stick, insert it into the USB port on the left-hand side of the PC monitor. Then find the location in the column on the left, and save your file there. If you don't have a memory stick, you could email the image to yourself through your web-based email account eg Hotmail or Gmail.
